If I were a judge, I would choose right from wrong and choose who is guilty and innocent I would wear a black robe and always have to make sure everyone followed the rules of the court I would always try to be the most generous judge anyone could be. I would try to be as generous as my teacher Mrs. White who is always fair to all the students As any generous judge would probably do, I would give each person a next try until I see that same person for the fifth time I would use some more evidence even after I think I would have chosen the right person. I would always need a third person as more evidence as for who saw the problem I see that a judge has a good job for the comunity and also a safe job!
