Introduction

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

- “An annulment shall be granted if the marriage is void or voidable under the laws of this state or of the state in which the marriage was performed.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-40(b) (2025).
- “A decree of annulment . . . shall give the parties the status of unmarried persons and they may marry again.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-67(d) (2025).
- “Annulment may be decreed by the court when the marriage was a void or voidable marriage but annulment may not be decreed when the marriage was a legal marriage . . . In determining the legality or voidability of a marriage the court is concerned with those incidents leading up to the celebration of the marriage ceremony and the incidents immediately surrounding that ceremony in order to determine the state of mind and the intention of the parties when entering into the ceremony of marriage, and hence, the validity of the marriage.” Trotta v. Trotta, 5 Conn. Supp. 218, 218 (1937).

Section 1: Effect, History and Definition

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

Bibliographic resources relating to the legal effect and history of an annulment in Connecticut. Includes how an annulment differs from a dissolution or a legal separation.

DEFINITIONS:

- "Divorce and annulment differ fundamentally. The former is based upon a valid marriage and a cause for terminating it which arises subsequently. Davis v. Davis, 119 Conn. 194, 196, 175 A. 574. The latter proceeds upon the theory that the marriage is void ab initio [from the beginning]." Mazzei v. Cantales, 142 Conn. 173, 178, 112 A.2d 205, 208 (1955).

ONLINE PUBLICATIONS & PAMPHLETS:

- What's the difference between a divorce, a dissolution of marriage, a legal separation, and annulment?

"Many people think they can ask for an annulment because they have been married for a very short time. An annulment is usually only possible when the marriage was not legal in the first place (for example, if one of the people was underage or already married)."

- Davis v. Davis, 119 Conn. 194, 203, 175 A. 574, 577 (1934). ". . . it clearly appears that two young people by their foolish and unconsidered conduct have gotten themselves into such a situation as arises out of the performance of a marriage ceremony between them without the intent on the part of either to enter into the marriage relationship, and cohabitation has not followed, we have no doubt that it is in the public interest legally to declare them to be unmarried rather than leave them under the shadow of a relationship which is but an empty form."

Section 2: Grounds for Annulment

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

Bibliographic resources relating to the grounds for granting an annulment in Connecticut.

DEFINITIONS:

- "It is the well-established law of this state that no marriage performed in this state is to be held void or voidable except for some ground recognized at common law or for some ground which a statute expressly provides shall be ground for annulment." Manning v. Manning, 16 Conn. Supp. 461, 461 (1950).
- "Grounds for annulment of a marriage fall into two general categories: those specifically set forth by statute, and those recognized pursuant to common law . . . Unlike the statutory provisions regarding the grounds for dissolution of a marriage, there is no single statute itemizing the grounds for annulment. The Court must, therefore, look to the statutes and case law." Phillips v. Dame, Superior Court, Judicial District of New London at New London, No. 518815 (July 11, 1991) (4 Conn. L. Rptr. 650) (1991 Conn. Super. LEXIS 1623) (1991 WL 131732).

STATUTES:

CASES:

- Ross v. Ross, Superior Court, Judicial District of Stamford/Norwalk at Stamford, No. FA970162587S (August 10, 1998) (22 Conn. L. Rptr. 637) (1998 WL 516159). "An annulment can be granted on common law grounds or statutory grounds. In general, common law grounds have been incorporated in our statutes . . . There are statutory grounds for annulment. General Statutes § 46b-21 (Marriage of certain kindred); § 46b-22 (Marriage attempted to be celebrated by person other than those listed); § 46b-24 (Marriage performed in Connecticut without a marriage license); § 46b-29 (Marriage of persons under conservatorship or guardianship); § 46b-30 (Marriages of minors); § 45b-48[46b-48] (Conviction of an offense against chastity)."

Age of Parties (CGS 46b-20a(b))

- Manning v. Manning, 16 Conn. Supp. 461, 461-462 (1950). "This is an uncontested action to annul the marriage of the parties on the ground that at the time of the marriage the plaintiff was only seventeen years of age and had not received the consent of her parents to the marriage . . . The statute invoked in this case does not expressly provide that failure to comply with it shall render the marriage either void or voidable . . . It is concluded that lack of parental consent does not render a marriage performed in this state either void or voidable."

Once you have identified useful cases, it is important to update the cases before you rely on them. Updating case law means checking to see if the cases are still good law. You can contact your local law librarian to learn about the tools available to you to update cases.

- Fantasia v. Fantasia, 8 Conn. Supp. 25, 25-26 (1940). "In this action the plaintiff prays the annulment of the marriage which she entered into with the defendant . . . without her parents' consent, on the ground that at the time she was a minor of the age of nineteen years . . . The plaintiff's contention . . . is that she, having been domiciled in Connecticut, the Connecticut law which required the written consent of her parents to the marriage, would apply . . . The statute in question imposes penalties for its violation, but does not either expressly or by clear inference, indicate that the Legislature intended that as a result of the violation of the statute, the marriage itself should be either void or voidable . . . Accordingly, it cannot well be held that the marriage involved in the case is rendered either void or voidable . . ."

Consanguinity or Affinity (CGS 46b-21)

- Kubanek v. Star, Superior Court, Judicial District of New Britain at New Britain, No. HHBCV166032449S (December 23, 2016) (2016 Conn. Super. LEXIS 3441) (2016 WL 8135424). "In her complaint dated February 23, 2016, the plaintiff . . . seeks a declaratory judgment pursuant to Practice Book § 17-54 that the marriage between the defendant . . . and the decedent . . . is void because of consanguinity."
- Singh v. Singh, 213 Conn. 637, 656, 569 A.2d 1112, 1121 (1990). ". . . a marriage between persons related to one another as half-uncle and half-niece is void under General Statutes §§ 46b-21 and 53a-191 as incestuous."
- Catalano v. Catalano, 148 Conn. 288, 291, 170 A.2d 726, 728 (1961). "It is the generally accepted rule that a marriage valid where the ceremony is performed is valid everywhere. Davis v. Davis, 119 Conn. 194, 197, 175 A. 574. There are, however, certain exceptions to that rule, including one which regards as invalid incestuous marriages between persons so closely related that their marriage is contrary to the strong public policy of the domicil though valid where celebrated."

Defects in Marriage Ceremony or License (CGS 46b-22a)

- Carabetta v. Carabetta, 182 Conn. 344, 345, 438 A.2d 109, 110 (1980). "The issue before us is whether, under Connecticut law, despite solemnization according to an appropriate religious ceremony, a marriage is void where there has been noncompliance with the statutory requirement of a marriage license."

Once you have identified useful cases, it is important to update the cases before you rely on them. Updating case law means checking to see if the cases are still good law. You can contact your local law librarian to learn about the tools available to you to update cases.

- Ross v. Ross, Superior Court, Judicial District of Stamford/Norwalk at Stamford, No. FA970162587S (August 10, 1998) (22 Conn. L. Rptr. 637) (1998 WL 516159). "This case involves the issue of lack of solemnization . . . this court concludes that it is civil law, not canon law, that determines the solemnization of the marriage ceremony under General Statutes § 46b-22."

Bigamy

- Anderson v. Anderson, 27 Conn. Supp. 342, 343, 238 A.2d 45, 45 (1967). "This action raises the question: Is the plaintiff, a Connecticut resident, a 'guilty' party to a bigamous marriage entered into in the state of New York, entitled to a decree declaring that marriage null and void?"
- Perlstein v. Perlstein, 26 Conn. Supp. 257, 259, 217 A.2d 481, 483 (1966). "A bigamous marriage is not merely voidable; it is void."

Concealment or Misrepresentation of Facts

- LaBranche v. LaBranche, Superior Court, Judicial District of Windham at Putnam, No. FA054003420 (March 27, 2006) (41 Conn. L. Rptr. 171) (2006 Conn. Super. LEXIS 1043) (2006 WL 1102720). "In the present case, the plaintiff is claiming that the defendant represented to her before the marriage that he would be able to secure full-time work to help support her and her three children (from her previous marriage), and that such fraudulent representation was the inducing cause of the marriage. . . The misrepresentations claimed by the plaintiff do not fall within the ambit of statutory or common-law exceptions that would allow the annulment of her marriage."
- Bernstein v. Bernstein, 25 Conn. Supp. 239, 240-241, 201 A.2d 660, 661 (1964). "To warrant the annulment of a marriage, the cause must be such as goes to the essence of the marriage contract. Consent of the participants is a necessary condition to the creation of a valid marriage relationship, and there must be an intention of the parties to enter into the marriage status. Davis v. Davis, 119 Conn. 194. The concealed intent not to assume the duties of the marital relationship is sufficient cause for an annulment."
- Nerini v. Nerini, 11 Conn. Supp. 361, 367 (1943). "My conclusion on the law, then, is this: all misrepresentations concerning one's health and fitness are immaterial unless they involve the essentialia to the marital relation such as a physical impediment making impossible the performance of the duties and obligations of the relation or rendering its assumption and continuance dangerous to the health or the other spouse or capable of affecting the health of their offspring.”

- Lyman v. Lyman, 90 Conn. 399, 403, 97 A. 312, 313 (1916). “. . . the courts are practically agreed in holding that antenuptial pregnancy by another man, if concealed by the wife from the husband, who was himself innocent of improper relations with her, is a fraud upon him justifying a divorce or annulment of the marriage, as the appropriate remedy in the jurisdiction may be.”

Fraud, Force or Duress

- Ortega v. Hubbard, Superior Court, Judicial District of Middlesex at Middletown, No. MMXFA245016572S (May 10, 2024) (2024 WL 2150277). “Even when the alleged fraud concerns the essentials of the marriage, however, the elements of fraud defined by Connecticut law must still be met. ‘The essential elements of fraud are: (1) a false representation was made as a statement of fact; (2) it was untrue and known to be untrue by the party making it; (3) It was made to induce the other party to act upon it; and (4) the other party did so act upon that false representation to his injury All of these ingredients must be found to exist Additionally, [t]he party asserting such a cause of action must prove the existence of the first three of [the] elements by a standard higher than the usual fair preponderance of the evidence, which ... we have described as clear and satisfactory or clear, precise and unequivocal.’ (Citations omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Trumbull v. Palmer, 123 Conn. App 244, 257, 1 A.3d 1121, cert. denied, 299 Conn. 907, 10 A.3d 526 (2010). ‘The plaintiff’s burden is complicated further still by the fact that [she] seeks to prove, only by her own testimony, the defendant’s state of mind’ Barra v. Barra, supra, Superior Court, Docket No. HHD-FA-15-5039866-S.

The plaintiff offers her testimony as evidence that, after she made clear that she would only marry someone who shared her commitment to her faith, that the defendant promised to tithe and regularly attend church with her. She testifies that the defendant did not carry through on his promises, and that this lack of action proves that his statements prior to marriage were intentional misrepresentations designed to induce her into marriage. However, the present case offers no definitive misrepresentation about religion. Taking the plaintiff’s undisputed testimony as fact, the plaintiff only proves that: she would not have married someone who did not share her commitment to Christianity; that the defendant represented his willingness to attend church regularly, tithe, and be active in their Christian faith; that she relied on these promises when she married the defendant; and subsequently, that he did not fulfill his religious promises to her. The court finds that she has not proven by clear and convincing evidence, however, that the defendant knew his statements were untrue and that he had no intention to fulfill his promises, nor that the defendant made the misrepresentation specifically to induce the plaintiff into marriage.”

- Corbin-Camara v. Camara, Superior Court, Judicial District of New London at Norwich, No. KNOFA196104588S (September 3, 2019) (69 Conn. L. Rptr. 251) (2019 Conn. Super. LEXIS 2470) (2019 WL 4898711). “Defendant declared to plaintiff that he had converted to Christianity, but he had not. Defendant knew his declaration to be untrue. He stated this falsehood to induce plaintiff into marriage. Plaintiff married defendant relying on his statement. To her detriment and contrary to her clearly articulated condition at the beginning of the relationship, she found herself married to a non-Christian man.

The court finds that defendant fraudulently induced plaintiff to marry him by clear and convincing evidence.”

- Martinez v. Santiago, Superior Court, Judicial District of New London at Norwich, No. FA185106176 (September 18, 2018) (67 Conn. L. Rptr. 120) (2018 Conn. Super. LEXIS 2602) (2018 WL 4865984). “‘The concealed intent not to assume the duties of the marital relationship is sufficient cause for an annulment. Intention at the time of the marriage is most important.’ Neither party testified as to their intentions. Since failure to consummate the marriage does not in and of itself constitute grounds for the granting of an annulment, and since there was no testimony as to the intentions and circumstances of the parties in entering this union, nor as to their willingness to seek counseling to reconcile their differences, the court is unable to conclude that an annulment is proper.”
- Barra v. Barra, Superior Court, Judicial District of Hartford at Hartford, No. HH DFA155039866S (January 27, 2016) (61 Conn. L. Rptr. 582) (2016 Conn. Super. LEXIS 188) (2016 WL 624449). “He laid out to the defendant certain conditions for him to marry her, which related directly to the issue of the defendant’s ex-husband. He demanded that the defendant recognize that it was more harmful to allow her ex-husband to continue withholding support and undermining her relationships with her children than it would be to stand up to him. Further, he demanded that the defendant declare her willingness, if the parties married, to allow the plaintiff 'the full authority to lead and protect our family' in matters of conflict with the ex-husband. The defendant agreed to the plaintiff's requests . . . She conceded that she had not been honest during their premarital discussion when she assured him that she would be able to stand up to her ex-husband and allow the plaintiff also to do so on her behalf . . . The plaintiff's action for annulment rests upon his claim that the defendant committed a fraud upon him when she agreed to his conditions for marriage."

- Schibi v. Schibi, 136 Conn. 196, 198, 69 A.2d 831, 833 (1949). "The sole question presented to the court for determination was whether the marriage was void because there was no mutual consent of the parties."
- Avery v. Avery, 16 Conn. Supp. 418, 419 (1949). ". . . if a fraudulent representation is to be one which makes the marriage voidable it must be at least as serious as those which give ground for divorce for fraudulent contract. That is, it must be one which goes to the very essence of the marriage relationship."

Table 3: Unreported Decisions — Concealment or Misrepresentation

Concealment or Misrepresentation as Grounds for Annulment of Marriage
Emerick v. Emerick, Superior Court, Judicial District of Hartford at Hartford, No. FA144073480S (June 25, 2015) (2015 Conn. Super. LEXIS 1681) (2015 WL 4496883).	"The defendant's claim is of plaintiff's fraudulent representations at the time of the marriage and subsequent alleged financial improprieties during the marriage. Aside from the fact that the court finds the claims without merit, such allegations do not give rise to a basis for an annulment. A party is entitled to an annulment on the grounds of fraud only when it is proven that the fraud relates to the 'essentialia of the marriage relation.' Lyman v. Lyman, 90 Conn. 399, 402, 97 A. 312 (1916); Fattibene, supra at 439. Such a fraud is accomplished whenever a person enters into that contract knowing that he is incapable of sexual intercourse, and yet, in order to induce the marriage, designedly and deceitfully concealing the fact from the other party, who is ignorant of it and has no reason to suppose it to exist. Gould v. Gould, 78 Conn 242, 250, 61 A. 604 (1905)."
Sampson v. Wesoloski, Superior Court, Judicial District of Hartford at Hartford, No. HH DFA134071069 S (February 25, 2014) (57 Conn. L. Rptr. 688) (2014 Conn. Super. LEXIS 402) (2014 WL 1193333).	"The gist of the plaintiff's evidence is that, in her words, the defendant 'intentionally misled me by creating an appealing male persona in order to get close to me and form a relationship with me' . . . the complaint rests on the common-law grounds of fraud. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant's misrepresentations rise to the level of fraud rendering the marriage void or voidable . . . In the present case, the defendant clearly engaged in a persistent pattern of untruthfulness in an attempt to make himself more attractive to the plaintiff. Much of the alleged misrepresentation occurred after the time of the marriage, and for that reason cannot be considered as 'fraud in the inducement' which might warrant an annulment."
Vascianna v. Vascianna, Superior Court, Judicial District of Hartford at Hartford, No. FA114057012S (March 19, 2012) (53 Conn. L. Rptr. 619) (2012 Conn. Super. LEXIS 748) (2012 WL 1139138).	"The defendant's immigration status, refusal to cohabit with the plaintiff and offer of money to remain married lead to the inevitable conclusion that Mr. Vascianna married the plaintiff for the sole purpose of obtaining a green card and legal residence in this country. The court finds Mrs. Vascianna was completely unaware of her husband's intention not to cohabit or assume the duties and responsibilities of husband and wife."

Rice v. Monteleone, Superior Court, Judicial District of New London at New London, No. FA020563144S (February 25, 2004) (2004 Conn. Super. LEXIS 443) (2004 WL 503689).	"In essence, the plaintiff's claims, which form the bases of her request for an annulment, are that the defendant lied to her in his assertions of love and affection and married her for her money. Even if one assumes for the sake of argument that those claims were proven, they are not sufficient for the entry of an order of annulment."
DaSilva v. DaSilva, Superior Court, Judicial District of New Haven at New Haven, No. FA020470290 (April 21, 2003) (2003 Conn. Super. LEXIS 1229) (2003 WL 21037549).	"The Wife alleged that the Husband had married her for a green card, that he did not contribute to the household financially, that he was not supportive of her, that he was insulting to her, that he did not spend time with her, and that he referred to his family in Brazil as his real family . . . The Wife did not sustain her burden of proving, by clear and convincing evidence, that the conditions leading up to and surrounding the marriage render the marriage void or voidable."
Brennauer v. Brennauer, Superior Court, Judicial District of New London at Norwich, No. FA020124680S (November 15, 2002) (2002 Conn. Super. LEXIS 3622) (2002 WL 31687423).	"Counts one, three, four and five seek an annulment of the marriage on the following grounds, respectively: that the defendant had determined prior to the marriage never to cohabit or consummate the marriage and that if the plaintiff had known this, he never would have entered into the marriage; that the defendant created fraud upon the deceived plaintiff in that she concealed facts which would have affected the plaintiffs decision to enter into the marriage; that the defendant lacked the requisite intent to be married and misrepresented her intentions regarding the ceremony; and that the marriage ceremony itself was defective."
Hardy v. Hardy, Superior Court, Judicial District of Tolland at Rockville, No. FA9557392S (November 7, 1995) (1995 Conn. Super. LEXIS 3071) (1995 WL 669153).	"The plaintiff claims that this marriage is voidable because the defendant fraudulently led her to believe he earned $22,000 per year when he only earned $16,000; that he had no outstanding bills when he did; that he failed to pay her for the cost of being added to her medical plan as he promised and that the marriage was not consummated."

- Ciarleglio v. Martin, 228 Conn. App 241, 244, 325 A.3d 219 (2024). "[...] the court concluded that an annulment action does not abate upon the death of a plaintiff, unless there is no fiduciary in place to continue the litigation on behalf of the decedent."
- Manndorff v. Dax, 13 Conn. App. 282, 284-285, 535 A.2d 1324, 1325 (1988). "Although the annulment statutes do not specifically say so, the parties agree, as do we, that there is an additional requirement with respect to subject matter jurisdiction over annulment actions. At least one party must be domiciled in Connecticut."
- Perlstein v. Perlstein, 152 Conn. 152, 160, 204 A.2d 909, 913 (1964). "It follows that the statute (§ 52-68) generally governing service by publication on a nonresident defendant properly applies to an annulment action, where, as here, the plaintiff is domiciled in Connecticut."
- Mazzei v. Cantales, 142 Conn. 173, 179, 112 A.2d 205, 208 (1955). "Where both parties to an action for annulment of a void marriage are non-residents and the defendant is not served with process within this state or does not appear and submit to the jurisdiction of the Superior Court, the fact that the marriage was performed within this state does not empower the court to obtain jurisdiction over the defendant by constructive service and to render a judgment annulling the marriage."

Table 4: Other Unreported Decisions on Annulment of Marriage

Unreported Connecticut Decisions
Dunlap v. Current, Superior Court, Judicial District of New London at Norwich, No. FA134122263 (March 27, 2014) (57 Conn. L. Rptr. 783) (2014 Conn. Super. LEXIS 683) (2014 WL 1647038).	"The crux of the plaintiff's complaint is that the marriage is voidable because prior to the marriage, the defendant misrepresented and/or omitted aspects of his criminal record and his financial condition to the plaintiff . . . The stipulation of the parties does not inform the court's analysis, nor is it determinative of the question of whether the marriage should be voided. The fact that the parties believe that their marriage is void or voidable is irrelevant. Whether the marriage is void or voidable is a legal question, which the court must determine based upon the facts and the law. Although the plaintiff clearly believes that she made a mistake by marrying the defendant, the court cannot find an otherwise valid marriage void or voidable based on a party's belief, or the agreement of the responding party."
Yan v. Fu, Superior Court, Judicial District of New Haven at New Haven, No. FA074026177S (October 17, 2008) (2008 Conn. Super. LEXIS 2669) (2008 WL 4853353).	"The wife seeks an annulment of the marriage claiming that the husband married her solely in order to obtain legal permanent residency in the United States. The wife contends that the Nevada judgment dissolving the husband's first marriage was a sham. She offered evidence that the address given by the husband in Nevada was either false or non-existent and claimed that he always intended to continue a conjugal relationship with his ex-wife as evidenced by the birth of his daughter to his ex-wife in 2005. The wife also alleges the husband sexually assaulted her, denied her what she wanted most i.e. a child, and used blackmail as a method of control. The later of these allegations are best addressed through the dissolution action and do not serve as a basis for annulment . . . From evidence the wife presented at trial it is not clear and convincing that the husband's Nevada divorce was a sham nor that the husband married solely to establish permanent residency . . . While the fact that the husband applied for permanent resident status on the exact date of the marriage is unsettling, it is evident that the wife could not be surprised or defrauded by that fact in that she assisted him in the submission of his application and at the hearing before the Immigration Services in support of that application as late as February 2007. The wife's amended cross complaint for annulment is denied."

While the lessons of Perlstein v. Perlstein remain vital, however, they should only apply to an action in which a fiduciary of a married party's estate seeks to obtain an annulment of a marriage to which its decedent was a party. As such, Perlstein v. Perlstein, supra, fails to provide adequate guidance for this court, which must assess the status of non-fiduciaries who seek to secure the annulment of a marriage which terminated by reason of death prior to the assertion of their claims."

- Fattibene v. Fattibene, 183 Conn. 433, 437, 441 A.2d 3, 5 (1981). "In the counterclaim to the complaint, the defendant sought an annulment of the marriage based on the plaintiff's fraudulent nondisclosure at the time of the marriage of her prior marital status and of the previous birth of a child. Although there is evidence in the record to the contrary, the defendant alleges that he did not learn of the nondisclosed facts until the commencement of this action, over twenty-five years after the wedding ceremony, and never condoned the plaintiff's fraud or cohabitated with her after discovering it. The trial court decided that a valid marriage existed between the parties and dissolved it, rather than declare it null and void. The defendant claims on appeal that the trial court erred."

Section 6: Property Distribution

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

Bibliographic resources relating to property distribution and annulments in Connecticut.

DEFINITIONS:

- "At the time of entering a decree annulling or dissolving a marriage or for legal separation pursuant to a complaint under section 46b-45, the Superior Court may assign to either spouse all or any part of the estate of the other spouse. The court may pass title to real property to either party or to a third person or may order the sale of such real property, without any act by either spouse, when in the judgment of the court it is the proper mode to carry the decree into effect." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-81(a) (2025).
- "In fixing the nature and value of the property, if any, to be assigned, the court, after considering all the evidence presented by each party, shall consider the length of the marriage, the causes for the annulment, dissolution of the marriage or legal separation, the age, health, station, occupation, amount and sources of income, earning capacity, vocational skills, education, employability, estate, liabilities and needs of each of the parties and the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and income. The court shall also consider the contribution of each of the parties in the acquisition, preservation or appreciation in value of their respective estates." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-81(c) (2025).
- "A direct action to annul a marriage not only affects the status of the marriage itself but may also affect property rights arising from this status." Perlstein v. Perlstein, 26 Conn. Supp. 257, 258, 217 A.2d 481, 482-483 (1966).
